Equipment, golf carts, trolleys, carts and distance measurement:

The game is played with golf clubs built before 1935 and equipped with a hickory wood shaft. Materials of the club shaft other than wood and metal shaft inserts are not permitted.

Modern balls approved for betting in accordance with the provisions of the R&A, as well as those named according to the guidelines of the Society of Hickory Golfers "Modern Equipment Guidelines", No. 5, are allowed.

In case of doubt, the game management alone decides.

Only historical trolleys are allowed. We always ask you to wear the golf bag. Carts and electric trolleys are of course just as taboo as distance measuring devices of any kind.

Sets of rental rackets are available (original rackets before 1935 with hickory wood shaft). These can be rented if necessary including insurance.

Dresscode/Etiquette:

The game is played in historical clothing from around 1930. For men, plus fours, plus twos or knickerbocker as leg dresses are desired, as well as jackets, vests, shirts, tie or bow tie, flat cap, hat. The ladies play in dresses, skirts (above the knee), blouses, jackets, hats, etc.

Participants with a club target down to -45.0 will be evaluated for the net rating with a regular target of -36.0. Professional players and golf instructors can also participate in the tournament if they belong to the German PGA or a recognized foreign PGA. In the case of more than 80 entries, the entry decision is made. There is a waiting list.

Evaluation:

The gross rating is divided into professionals and amateurs, provided that professionals are at the start. The net rating is carried out separately according to ladies and gentlemen. In the case of equality in the gross rating around the J.W. Buckland Trophy, the winner is determined immediately after the end of the competition in a jump-off. The jump-off takes place on the 18th track of the Cologne Golf Club, until a winner has been determined. For the determination of the subsequent placements, the better last 9 holes decide with the same results. In the case of further equality, the last 6, 3, 1 holes are used until a decision is made, in net with a proportionate specification. In case of further equality, the lot decides. It starts in groups of players with a maximum of 4 players.

Team special ranking for the prize "The Captains Barrel":

A team consists of two players, the team with the fewest gross strokes in the "best ball" format wins.
